

Rebecca Aadland

"I COULD USE A MIRACLE"

~ Single release date: September 26, 2025 ~

with new video directed by Eli Gardiner!

Full band concert on Sunday, September 28, 6pm

The Icehouse

2528 Nicollet Ave, Minneapolis, MN 55404

"Rebecca Aadland is a storyteller with a voice as captivating as her journey -- a lifetime of observing, reflecting and pouring all those lessons into music that resonates on a deep, personal level."

Stevie Conner, The Sound Café

Rebecca Aadland is a soulful singer-songwriter from Minneapolis, Minnesota. Her songs span styles of folk, rock, indie and blues. Having also worked as a music teacher, psychotherapist, and public speaker, she is drawn to stories of overcoming tragedy and loving boldly. The unexpected death of her husband from a massive heart attack in 2022, took Rebecca to a dark and lonely place, unable to write or perform her music. Determined to make sense of the pain, she wrote the line, "I could use a miracle, my world went black years ago". Her new single was born. Recorded and produced by Kevin Bowe (Johnny Lang, Paul Westerburg, 3 Dog Night) and mastered by Greg Reiersen (Prince, The Cure, Dan Wilson), the track features drummer Greg Schutte (Ryan Bingham, Mickey Hart, Cyndi Lauper), bassist Nick Salisbury (Brian Fallon, Ryan Bingham) and Kevin Bowe (above) on lead guitar and keyboards. Rebecca provides vocals and rhythm guitar. She is now actively writing and recording her third album with Kevin Bowe. Since her highly acclaimed album Stronger Broken (2022), this upbeat new rock song breathes fresh air and hope. She is also enjoying a newfound love relationship. New to her all-star cast of musicians is keyboardist Tommy Barbarella (Prince, Miley Cyrus, Nick Jonas), who will be joining her band at The Icehouse, 9/28/25.

I COULD USE A MIRACLE

Words & music by Rebecca Aadland

CHORUS: I could use a miracle, my world went black years ago
I've cried so many tears you know, can't seem to let it go
I could use a miracle, my world went black years ago
I've cried so many tears you know, feeling lost, feeling low

V1: Take me to green pastures and happy ever afters
Maybe it's not too late for me
Show me where the dance is and sweet second chances
Could another love be there for me

CHORUS: I could use a miracle, my world went black years ago...

V2: I've been singing sad songs, people say for too long
Maybe there's a happy song for me
All these awful feelings are becoming less appealing
Could you just sit here with me

CHORUS: I could use a miracle, my world went black years ago...

Website: <https://rebeccaadland.com/music/epk/>

YouTube: <https://www.youtube.com/@rebeccaadland4292>

Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/RebeccaAadlandMusic/>

Publicist: Krista Vilinskis – elephantsnadflowersmedia@gmail.com

Booking: Xylo Entertainment. sarabethhorishnyk@gmail.com

General: Rebecca Aadland beccada10@gmail.com

"Rebecca doesn't write songs just because she wants to, she writes songs because she has to. You can tell when you listen."

Kevin Bowe, producer/musician

Rebecca was selected as the Midwest Regional Finalist in the prestigious 2009 NewSong Contest. Her song Where's The Light was chosen as a semi-finalist in the 2024 International Unsigned Only Music Competition. In 2023, Rebecca's band performed a sold-out album release concert at Crooners in Minneapolis for her highly acclaimed record, Stronger Broken.

The Icehouse show will feature Rebecca's All-Star Band including: Tommy Barbarella, keys | Jacqueline Ultan, cello | Lantz Dale, guitars | Nick Salisbury, bass | Ben Peterson, drums | Jordan Zais, backing vocals | Paul Odegaard trumpet. Two gorgeous videos, created by Emmy Award winner, Eli Gardiner, will be shown on the big screen. Don't miss it on 9/28/25. Doors at 4 pm, Concert at 6 pm. Tickets $25, $35 at door.

For tickets, go to:

<https://icehouse.turntabletickets.com>